

MEDIA CONTACT:
Myren Bobryk-Ozaki
(619)-555-7986
Myren.Bobryk-Ozaki@resmed.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Fact Sheet

ResMed Unveils Brand New AI-Powered CPAP Machine

SAN DIEGO, December 8, 2023

Who:

- ResMed Inc. (NYSE: RMD, ASX: RMD)

What:

- Announces the release of the AirlIntell™ Adapt, an artificial intelligence-powered Continuous Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP) machine
- Part of the AirSense™ 12 series
- Builds on capabilities of previous AutoSet AirSense™ 10 and 11 series'
- Key artificial intelligence improvements:
  - High-level adaptation
  - Fast and accurate decision-making
  - Frequent and comprehensive reporting
  - Ease of use and accessibility

Where:

- Available for purchase at <https://www.resmed.com/>
- Available across all 140+ countries ResMed has operations in

When:

- Announced December 8th, 2023
- Available for purchase December 11th, 2023

Why:

- Updating technology for CPAP machines and systems
- Enable ResMed's goal to improve quality of life and lower healthcare costs for the millions of people with chronic conditions that affect sleep and sleeping patterns

Quotes:

- "We are always striving to match our product offerings with the latest technology to make sure our customers have access to the best of the best and, right now, that is artificial intelligence. At ResMed, we believe every patient has individual needs so, the AirSense 12 Series, and the AirlIntell™ Adapt, take all the greatest parts of our previous AirSense series' to make something more effective for those seeking a seamless sleep experience." - Lucile Blaise, President of Sleep and Respiratory Care at ResMed
- "We are showing our commitment to improving the lives of our customers through advancements to the technology they rely on for a good night's sleep. We really wanted to provide our customers with an option that would take the guesswork out of the picture because everyone should feel confident that, when their head hits the pillow, they will sleep well.” - Lucile Blaise, President of Sleep and Respiratory Care at ResMed

Background:

- ResMed has specialized in CPAP systems since being founded in 1989
- The AirIntell™ Adapt adds to ResMed's large CPAP systems product portfolio
- Clinical trials indicated a consumer preference for the AirIntell™ Adapt of 85.9% by the end of week two. Key findings include:
  - Quick adjustments to sleeping patterns
  - Compatibility with existing tubes and masks
  - Simple reports on sleep through the myAir app

Website: <https://www.resmed.com/>

Twitter (X): <https://twitter.com/ResMed>

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/company/resmed/>

###